GETTING A START IN MINING

Are you ready for a new career?

RMS has developed an easy to read online guide that will help you to better understand what is needed to get a start in the mining, construction or transport industry!

RMS has a long history of working with Mining clients to assist them with the upskilling and accreditation of their existing workforce and with the recruitment of new staff. This has included the development of customised training packages, traineeship programs, Mine Management and Mining consultancy.

RMS have advertised, interviewed and employed inexperienced persons and given thousands a start in Mining over the past 18 years of being in this industry. Most of what we have done in these areas has involved collaboration with major mining companies to ensure we understand what their objectives are and what they have wanted to achieve.

The results have been a successful outcome for both client and new employee creating new career pathways with financially rewarding outcomes for individuals not previously exposed to the mining industry together with happy mining clients.

The author of this guide is not only the owner of RMS Training but a Registered Quarry Manager, having been in the role of Mine Manager at many mining operations. He understands Mining and what is required by mining companies and backs it up with case studies that have proven success.

For years RMS has guided people and answered questions but never could we give as much information and direction as what we have in this guide. If you are really serious about wanting to get a start then this online guide is a must read and will save you hours of unnecessary heartache.

We believe it will provide new and positive direction in your quest to join the mining, construction or transport industries which are currently experiencing a new surge in production presenting major opportunities to change your life.
